New national Down syndrome website

Have your say!

This is an Easy Read survey.

The questions are about a new national Down syndrome website.

Please do the survey if you want to tell us your ideas for the website.

About the survey

Who is running this survey?

Down Syndrome Australia (DSA) is running the survey.

Our job is to speak up for people with Down syndrome.

Why are we running the survey?

DSA is working with Down syndrome organisations around Australia to make a new website.

The website is for people with Down syndrome, their families and friends.

It is also for other people in the community. This includes people such as doctors, teachers, disability organisations, government and media, such as TV, newspapers and online.

We want to know what you think should be on the new website.

We will put what you tell us together with what other people say.

This will help us make a website that is useful for everyone.

Important information before you start

You can take some time to think about whether you want to do the survey or not.

You can choose if you want to answer all the questions in the survey or not.

You can choose just to do some of the questions if you like.

You don't have to put personal information in the survey.

Personal information is information about you, like your name or your address.

If you give us your personal information, we will keep it safe and private.

You can ask someone to help you answer the questions if you want to.

You can do a tick or circle your answer. You can also write or draw your answers.
